1. Please give an overview of ship arrest practice in your country.

In Japan there are mainly two types of ship arrest. One is an arrest by lien or Mortgage. The other is a provisional arrest.

Arrest by Lien or Mortgage – A ship can be arrested to execute a maritime lien on the arrested ship or enforce a mortgage on the arrested ship. The arrestor can arrest the ship without putting up any counter-security. To release the arrested ship the shipowners are usually requested to put up security (although we have recently experience to release the arrested ship without security ~ “Fairwind 308”).

Provisional Arrest (Real Arrest) – A creditor of shipowners can arrest the ship owned by the shipowners to obtain the security of their claim (regardless of such claim is maritime or not). In order to arrest by this provisional arrest the arrestor shall put up counter security. To release the arrested ship the shipowners are usually requested to put up security which is usually the same amount of the arrestor’s claim amount.

2. Which International Convention applies to arrest of ships in your country?

No International Convention applies to arrest of ships in Japan. Japan has not ratified the arrest conventions of 1952 and 1999.

3. Is there any other way to arrest a ship in your jurisdiction?

A claimant can arrest a ship by (i) an arrest by lien or mortgage or (ii) provisional arrest.

4. Are these alternatives e.g. saisie conservatoire or freezing order?

No.

5. For which types of claims can you arrest a ship?

By the provisional arrest he claimant can arrest a ship under any monetary claim of whatsoever nature against the shipowner. In order to arrest by lien or mortgage the arrestor shall have a maritime lien or a mortgage on the arrested ship.

6. Can you arrest a ship irrespectively of her flag?

Yes.

7. Can you arrest a ship irrespectively of the debtor?

In case of the provisional arrest the debtor shall be the shipowners. In case of the arrest by lien or mortgage, the holder of the maritime lien or mortgage can arrest the ship irrespectively of the debtor.

8. What is the position as regards sister ships and ships in associated ownership?

Not impossible but not easy.

9. What is the position as regards Bareboat and Time-Chartered vessels?

In case where a bareboat charterer is the debtor the creditor may arrest the ship based on our special provision. In case of time charter there is some argument.

10. Do your Courts require counter-security in order to arrest a ship?

In case of an arrest by a lien or mortgage, a claimant does not need to put up counter-security. In case of the provisional arrest a claimant must deposit counter-security.

11. Is there any difference in respect to arresting a ship for a maritime claim and a maritime lien?

Yes. If a claim gives rise to a maritime lien, the claimant can arrest the ship by lien. If not the claimant shall arrest the ship by provisional arrest only.

12. Does your country recognise maritime liens? Under which International Convention, if any?

Yes. Japan is not member of any International Conventions. But a Japanese court can recognize the maritime liens.

13. What lapse of time is required in order to arrest a ship since the moment the file arrives to your law firm?

It depends on how complicate your claim is. We have several experience to arrest ships within 48 hours from the instruction.

14. Do you need to provide a POA, or any other documents of the claim to the Court?

Yes we need a POA. Several documents are required as the Japanese courts like paper.

15. What original documents are required, what documents can be filed electronically, what documents require notarisation and/or apostille, and when are they needed?

Originals of POA and corporate certificates are required. But some courts accept a copy. It depends on the discretion of the judges.

16. Will your Courts accept jurisdiction over the substantive claim once a vessel has been arrested?

It depends upon a case.

17. Which period of time will be granted by the Courts in order for the claimants to take legal action on the merits?

In case of the provisional arrest it is minimum two weeks.

With respect to an arrest by lien or mortgage there is no need to take legal action on the merit.

18. Do the Courts of your country acknowledge wrongful arrest?

Yes

19. Do the Courts of your country acknowledge the piercing and lifting of the corporate veil?

Yes but not easy.

20. Is it possible to have a ship sold pendente lite; if so how long does it take?

No. During proceedings, the ship can only be sold by a public auction at the Court.
